Tebasaki

I ordered Curry Chanko today!

Here are today's dishes!

Wow, that's a lot.
The sashimi looks fresh and delicious!

Hmm? What is this dish?

Those are deep-fried chicken wings called "Tebasaki."

In sumo, you lose
when you touch the ground
with your hands,

so chicken wings
that don't touch the ground
are said to be good luck food!

A win is marked with a "white dot," so the wings
are sprinkled with white sesame seeds.

Don't mind the sesame seeds
sticking around your mouth.
Eat the wing with your hands.

Sesame seeds
sticking around the mouth means you're lucky.

Thank you for waiting.

Please start eating
from the cooked ingredients!

Chanko Nabe has a lot of ingredients!

It smells good!

The deep-fried tofu
tastes so good.

The soup is so delicious that I can eat a lot of meat and vegetables.

Oh, it was delicious.

empty

I ate it up so fast.

I wanted to eat a little more.

Then, would you like a "Shime"?

What's a "Shime"?

When we're done eating,
we use the remaining
soup to eat rice or udon.

I personally recommend adding rice to curry Chanko!

× (Shime)

- Rice, rice cake
- udon
- ramen

It's also good with Parmesan cheese!

The thick rice
porridge is delicious!

It looks like risotto.

We also have dessert!

Yay!

Oh, that was delicious!

Thank you so much!

I'm happy that I ate
to my heart's content

It was so delicious!
I'm glad this will be a fond memory!
